Job Title: Founder and Director General, Grupo Atalaya

Company: Former General Secretary of CISEN (Mexico's national security intelligence agency), Former Undersecretary of the Ministry of the Interior, and Chief Liaison for Border Security, Drug Trafficking and Immigration, Mexican Embassy in the U.S.

Gustavo Mohar's Biography

Gustavo Mohar has a longstanding career in national security, serving in some of the most high-ranking positions in Mexico's Government. As General Secretary of CISEN (Mexico's national security intelligence agency) from 2007 to 2011, he was on the frontline of some of the most testing security challenges the country has faced in recent history. Among his various responsibilities, he was in charge of coordinating intelligence agencies and operations in the war against organized crime, particularly against drug cartels and other subversive groups. Previously, he also held the position of Director of International Affairs at said organization. Gustavo Mohar has also served as Undersecretary of the Ministry of the Interior, Chief Negotiator for Immigration Affairs at Mexico's Foreign Ministry and Chief Liason for Border Security, Drug Trafficking and Immigration at the Mexican Embassy in the U.S.
